Moon-Jung Chung Scholarship Competition

in conjunction with 19th KOCSEA Technical Symposium

<https://kocseaa.org/symposia/2018/>

This year's KOCSEA Technical Symposium will be held during November 9 – 10, 2018 at Silicon Valley, CA. As a part of symposium, we host a scholarship competition to recognize outstanding Korean or Korean-American students, studying Computer Science or related areas in the U.S. The scholarship is dedicated to commemorate the late professor, Moon-Jung Chung, who was one of the KOCSEA founders and did a great service to the organization. The scholarship recipients are expected to have excelled in academics and demonstrated potential for making significant contributions in their discipline. We are soliciting for posters that present research projects with significant contributions.

Eligibility for scholarship

1. Undergraduate or graduate Korean/Korean-American students studying Computer Science and related areas in the U.S.
2. KOCSEA membership (Students may apply for free KOCSEA membership at the time of scholarship application through <https://kocseaa.org>).

To participate in the scholarship competition, please send the following application materials and e-mail to kocsea.scholarship@gmail.com by October 12, 2018. The scholarship recipients MUST present the poster during the poster session at the symposium. KOCSEA will provide lodging and meal.
